

Principal David McGuire Featured in ‘This American Life’

By Educator Barnes – September 3, 2020

David McGuire, principal of Tindley Summit, was recently featured in “This American Life,” a public radio show. The episode, “The Case of the Well-Prepared Elementary School,” narrated by Chalkbeat Indiana bureau chief Stephanie Wang, follows McGuire as his students return both in-person and remotely. This episode shows the challenges schools and families face right now during the coronavirus pandemic and highlights the thorough plan McGuire had in place to ensure education could continue during the 2020-21 school year.

Listen to the episode now.

This American Life ✓
@ThisAmerLife

An elementary school carefully did everything you could possibly do to prepare for students coming back this fall. And then first day, it all went south in a way nobody expected.

The Case of the Well-Prepared Elementary School - This American Life
A school that has prepared for every Covid scenario faces a problem they never saw coming.

thisamericanlife.org

9:57 AM · Aug 31, 2020

21

See This American Life's other Tweets